

DRAFT
June 14, 1972

Mr. Felix Belair, Jr.
New York Times
Washington Bureau
1701 K Street, N.W.
Washington, D. C. 20006

Dear Mr. Belair:

We have completed an initial screening of the six items attached to your request of June 5, 1972.

This initial investigation indicates that the items requested fall into three general categories:

A. Not available to this Agency. This category covers your request for minutes of the 303 Committee.

B. Too general to permit search without extensive effort and expenditure. Covered in this category are your requests for intelligence reports on Chinese troop movements, termination of the Greek civil war, reports bearing on the assassination of Trujillo and basic justifications for U.S. involvement in Laos.

C. Not responsive to request as worded. This covers the assessment of the <sup>KHRUSHCHEV'S</sup> Krushchev's speech about wars of national liberation and its bearing on U.S. foreign policy. We believe we may be able to recover assessments which would then have to be evaluated in the terms of Executive Order 11652. Our initial review leads us to believe that we cannot find documents relating this speech to U.S. foreign policy.

Sincerely yours,

Angus Thuermer
Assistant to the Director